

Fabian Widmer is a Scientific Researcher at the Lucerne University of Applied science and Arts (HSLU) in Horw, Switzerland. Fabian Widmer received his BSE in electrical engineering from HSLU in 2019 and his MSC in information communication technologies from HSLU in 2022.

From 2019 to 2022, he was a Research Assistant in the Institute of Electrical Engineering at HSLU. Since February 2022 he has been a Scientific Researcher in the research group Digital Energy and Electric Power at HSLU. His research interests include machine learning and data science in the field of end-user load forecasting.