

Felix Kåhrström (M.Sc.). In his most recent project, he has been contributing to the nuclear power plant industry by investigating how natural language processing can be applied. Since September, Felix is working as a Data Engineering Consultant at AFRY. During his studies, Felix spent a year studying Artificial Intelligence and ethics in South Korea. From 2020 to 2021, Felix worked as a project manager, leading Sweden's largest virtual career fair which hosted many large tech companies. In his free time, Felix likes to do different sports such as skiing, running, surfing, volleyball, padel etc. He also enjoys cooking, especially Korean food.