

Valentina Bosetti is a full professor at the Economics Department of Bocconi University, where she teaches Environmental and Climate Change Economics and senior scientist at the RFF-CMCC European Institute on Economics and the Environment.

Valentina is currently serving as chair of Terna S.p.A.

She was a senior researcher at Fondazione Eni Enrico Mattei during the period 2003-2018.

She has been fellow at the Center for Advanced Studies in Behavioural Sciences at Stanford University in 2014-2015, and visiting fellow at Princeton University in 2009-10.

Valentina is one of the lead authors of the 5th and the 6th AR IPCC.

Valentina was President of the Italian Association of Environmental and Resource Economics (IAERE) and council member of the European one (EAERE).

She was the PI of a European Research Council (ERC) Starting Grant on Innovation and clean technologies (ICARUS) and she currently is PI of a European Research Council (ERC) Starting Grant on Uncertainty and Climate Change (RISICO).